

Budget for Centennial Library remodel set at $3.5 million

Public input to be taken at Aug. 9 presentation

A contract which took about six months to finalize between the architectural design firm Leo A. Daly and Anoka County was signed in late July. The Daly firm is being hired to prepare designs for the remodeling of the Centennial branch library in Circle Pines.

An open house will be held at the library Wednesday, Aug. 9 from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. to take public input regarding the plans to be presented. The library is located in a campus off Lake Drive and east of Lexington Avenue that also houses Circle Pines City Hall and a U.S. Post Office.

2012	112,912	230,967	39,539	4,215	4,054	47,830

The contract states the overall budget will be $3.5 million, with $2,850,000 of that figure for construction costs. The Daly firm's compensation is to be 9% of the construction cost figure. Any additional services from the firm will be billed by the hour, ranging from $80 to $295.

The contract was on the Feb. 21, 2017 agenda of the Finance and Capital Improvements Committee and was approved by the Anoka County Board at its March 7 meeting.

The 6,300-square foot library was built in 1985 and roof and structural repairs were made in 1996.

Success for Nowthen's High Speed Internet Committee

This week, Nowthen Mayor Jeff Pilon informed the Anoka County Record that high speed internet service will soon be available across the entire city.

Mayor Pilon said, "The residents of Nowthen have made their voices heard at CenturyLink. Thanks to all who have been part of the internet committee this past year and a half, and thanks to all the residents who have continued to contact CenturyLink to let them know how critical it is to have high speed internet service throughout the city."

The service expansion has received assistance from the Federal Communications Commission - Connect America Fund. This

MPCA Advises Against High Carbon Vacations

by Tom Steward

The Minnesota Pollution Control Agency wants you to think twice about that summer vacation you've been looking forward to.

As many of you embark on long-awaited summer vacations, remember to do so sustainably! It's easy to forget the huge carbon cost of travel—one yearly vacation can cancel out a year's worth of sustainable lifestyle choices. Luckily, many people are concerned about this problem. A recent survey showed that 67% of Americans think eco-friendly travel is important.

Fortunately, the agency's latest Living Green 365 newsletter provides tips on how to literally go green and "take your vacation without the guilt". But you should strongly consider cancelling any plane reservations.

Take five minutes to calculate your carbon footprint and you may discover the ugly truth: air travel is often the biggest contributor to personal carbon emissions.

This summer, why not return to more time-honored forms of transportation?

"Time-honored" means no SUV, preferably not even a more fuel-efficient car. The environmentally advisable way to go according to the MPCA? Motor coach and train.

Check out motor coach routes—these comfortable buses are the most carbon-friendly way to travel, and also a great way to save money on transportation!

Train travel is also an overlooked travel option. Amtrak has routes all across the country and can often count as a carbon-free trip for you.

Either way, the state suggests buying an environmental indulgence to ease your conscience.

Many people choose to invest in carbon offset plans to balance their trip with a positive climate impact. However, the world of carbon offsets is complicated, with many different companies vying for customers' money.

...Ultimately, it may be better to donate directly to a clean energy project or other organization doing climate-related work. These organizations are doing the same work as many carbon offset groups, and donating directly will cut out the middle-person. Better yet, look up environmental groups in the region you're traveling to and use this as an opportunity to make an environmental connection to the place you visit.

If you haven't cancelled your trip by now, due to all the hoops the state's environmental travel agency recommends you go through, here's one last tip: Pack light!

A lighter suitcase does more than just simplify your travel. Extra weight requires more fuel to transport, so cutting back on what you bring can help make your trip less stressful and reduce your carbon emissions!

The following is a brief summary of all 48 cases completed during the second quarter of 2017:

High Speed Internet

program is designed to ensure that consumers in rural, insular, and high-cost areas have access to modern communications networks capable of providing voice and broadband service, both fixed and mobile, at rates that are reasonably comparable to those in urban areas.

Of the twenty-four Connect America Fund projects underway in Nowthen, three are considered complete. The remaining projects are expected to be completed by the end of September 2017. Homes in these areas will have a minimum 10 Mbps up and 1 Mbps down speed.

Mayor Pilon stated that residents should call the CenturyLink Coon Rapids retail store at (763) 795-8082 to request rate and installation information. He stated that they should use sales code TBUCHHO when requesting service in the Nowthen area.

When new areas come online, CenturyLink will send out direct mail information to potential customers. Current CenturyLink customers should also inquire about the availability of upgraded speeds.

Mayor Pilon indicated that CenturyLink may have sales representatives go door to door with additional information.

No cable internet company services Nowthen.

SW Corner of City Is Included

Mayor Pilon indicated that there initially was some confusion on the question of whether CenturyLink had the ability to provide high speed internet to the southwest quadrant of the city.

The southwest quadrant is defined as 181st on the south, Nowthen Boulevard on the east, Viking Boulevard on the north, and the city limits on the west.

Nowthen is served by two or three different telephone exchanges or switch offices. One that services the east part of Nowthen is located in Oak Grove near the intersection of Viking Boulevard and Rum River Boulevard.

Mayor Pilon said, "We were told late this week that CenturyLink does indeed provide service to the southwest part of our city. In fact, some neighborhoods may have speeds up to 60 Mbps."

Mayor Pilon stated that residents should contact him personally at (763) 753-235 if residents in the southwest area are told by a CenturyLink representative that high speed internet service is not available. He said that he has an open line of communication with the Vice President of Operations at CenturyLink.

High Speed Internet will be available to residents in the SW corner of Nowthen

Always on the lookout for governmental waste, fraud, and abuse in Anoka County

July 21, 2017

Quote of the Week: "Make no mistake: Today's vote is a major disappointment to people who were promised full repeal. We still have a long, long way to go - both in health policy and in honesty."

-Sen. Ben Sasse (R-NE)

OBAMACARE WON

Folks, Obamacare won. It's here to stay. While that statement may sound melodramatic, it's the truth.

When the Senate voted 55-45 against a repeal of the program, most Americans missed the meaning, that Obamacare is here to stay.

By the way, let us heap scorn upon the six Republican Senators who voted against the repeal bill who were for the same repeal way, way back in 2015:

Murkowski - AK

McCain - AZ

Portman - OH

Heller - NV

Alexander - TN

Moore Capito - WV

These six were for it before they were against it and have forfeited the privilege of being re-elected. In other words, they should face a primary challenge from Republicans who believe in governing on principle.

There was a seventh Republican, Susan Collins of Maine, who also voted against the repeal. In 2015, she voted the same way and thus earns faint applause from this publication but she cleared the low bar of actually voting her conscience.

At essence, this week's Senate debate is about one central proposition: Is the federal government responsible for guaranteeing health care?

All other aspects of the debate are subordinate to this philosophical question. All other aspects of Obamacare policy flow from this question.

When the Senate rejected a repeal, it became the official public policy of the United States government that it is now responsible for health care.

55 Senators affirmed that somewhere in the constitution, probably under the same "penumbra" as the right to an abortion, there is a guarantee of health care.

While the federal government has certainly been involved in health care for some time (e.g. Medicare and Medicaid), Obamacare is different.

Obamacare, with health insurance exchanges, mandatory coverage for existing conditions, and heavy subsidies for millions of others, moved health care policy beyond the very sick and elderly and made subsidized health care available to nearly all.

Put another way, "repeal and replace" was never really a viable alternative.

The stark choice for the GOP was to either repeal Obamacare or admit that the federal government has now become a guarantor of universal health care.

There is no middle ground given this reality.

The fundamental proposition of Obamacare (federal responsibility for your healthcare) leads to the logical conclusion of a single-payer, universal care system.

This is why talk of a "skinny repeal" and other strategies is nothing more than window dressing designed to make the Republican base feel good and keep the GOP in power (Mitch McConnell and Paul Ryan hope).

In other words, these other votes are shiny objects designed to distract from the harsh reality that Republicans have capitulated on the subject and don't want to answer for it to the millions who believed they were serious about the issue.

An entitlement once issued is impossible to take away.

The passage of any other bill this week is meaningless.

Any "gains" such as a repeal of the individual mandate is ephemeral.

Now that Obamacare is here to stay, the debate will only be about how to "fix" it, with the all-too-familiar march towards more and bigger government.

The debate will be all about how much Obamacare we're going to swallow, not whether the federal government should be in this business at all.

History will record Obamacare as perhaps the most successful liberal entitlement scheme ever perpetrated on the American people, with Social Security the only peer.

And like those other entitlement programs, it will forever be on a pathway to bankruptcy, it will forever produce horror stories of waste, fraud, abuse, inefficiency, and downright cruelty.

Raise your hand if you want healthcare like what our veterans get from the VA.

And like those other entitlement programs, it won't matter. Obamacare will become a Leviathan, impervious to legislative oversight and fiscal sanity.

There is only one glimmer of hope.

The House of Representatives will have an opportunity to reject the thin gruel of "reform" that the Senate will likely send them and move the debate to a conference committee.

UPDATE: Since this issue went to press, the Senate failed to pass even a "skinny" repeal bill, rejecting it 51-49, with Republicans John McCain, Lisa Murkowski, and Susan Collins joining the Democrats to preserve Obamacare in its present form.

It's time for Republicans, as this publication counseled weeks ago, to walk away from Obamacare and move on to other issues. Let the Democrats, Al Franken and Amy Klobuchar included, to own it, as they always have.

Let Democrats now explain themselves.

Good luck with that. How did it work for them in 2016?

The House should insist on a repeal or else let the bill die.

Speaker Ryan should be prepared to tell the country that the Senate, GOP and DFL alike, isn't interested in true reform at this time, so the status quo will prevail.

That status quo will produce the same horrific results we've seen of the past several years.

The same results that produced a legislative majority and a president who promised to repeal the law producing said results.

If the GOP tinkers with Obamacare, they will own it and will thus own and be blamed for problems not of their making.

Once the GOP owns this, the Dems will campaign on a platform that the GOP "sabotaged" Obamacare and is to blame.

The GOP will spend time explaining why their window dressing isn't to blame, standing on defense in 2018.

If the GOP runs from this live grenade, the Dems will continue to own it and allow rationale political leaders to argue for a mandate to repeal.

This is a moment of high danger for politicians. This is an issue that calls for taking a stand on a divisive issue, something politicians hate.

Anything less means that yet another step - a giant leap - towards decline.

As Sen. Sasse remarked, honesty is in short supply in Washington.

TRASH'S DIRTY SECRETS

You don't get something for nothing.

Government does a horrible job managing anything.

These two axioms are on full display in Saint Paul, the latest city to attempt the takeover of trash hauling. Obamacare for trash.

Before we start, let's take a moment to heap derision on those citizens who want government to take over garbage hauling because they're too lazy to purchase this service themselves.

Really? You would probably also want government to negotiate your cable package. Or what pizza to order. Or what cell phone plan to purchase.

In any case, Saint Paul's high-profile push to euphemistically "coordinate" trash hauling shows the dirty secrets inherent in government's takeover of this segment of our economy.

The first secret is the "senior slam." This scam involves forcing every residential address in the city to have trash service. It's not that these residents aren't properly disposing of trash. It's that they don't need to pay for their own can.

These folks share a can, and the cost, with neighbors. They're kids come by and take the trash to put in their own can. They have an arrangement to dump their bags at work.

By forcing everyone to pay for trash service, the city can brag about negotiating a lower rate. This is true, but it's only true because those who don't need the service are forced to pay for it, which is nothing more than a citizen-to-citizen subsidy for those who do need it.

The second dirty secret is the general fund subsidy. Inevitably, a city's general fund ends up subsidizing the garbage operation for the same reason as the senior slam. Any general fund subsidy lowers the headline cost and allows the city to proclaim that government intervention has saved taxpayers money.

The proposed $52 "administrative fee" in Saint Paul is a prime example. In this case, the city was acting in transparent fashion by admitting that the takeover comes with expenses for the city.

In other cities, these fees are generally covered by the general fund. In Maplewood, for example, the city masked significant costs, like the purchase of garbage cans, with general fund money.

This is why Maplewood's costs look lower than Saint Paul's.

Citizens in Saint Paul should be vigilant in watching for new, "lower" costs being masked by general fund subsidies.

Another trick in this vein is trash-related city employees being funded out of the general fund.

A third trick used to make the headline trash fees look lower is to significantly increase the amount and types of add-on fees.

Think airlines in this case. It may only cost $75 to fly to Chicago, but there are baggage fees, convenience fees, snack fees, etc.

Government-run trash hauling is the same.

These contracts always come with hidden fees. If your can won't close fully, that's an upcharge. Have extra bags next to the can? That's an upcharge. Forget to put your can out on time? That's an upcharge.

Again, citizens in Saint Paul should take care to read over any proposed contract and watch the hidden fees!

Even in a liberal la-la land like Saint Paul, citizens are catching on to the scam called "organized collection."

Congressman Tom Emmer: NDAA Will Provide for our Military

Recently, the U.S. House of Representatives passed an incredible bill to uphold and ensure the national security of this great country. Through the passage of the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA), we are one step closer to fulfilling our promise to the American people: to keep them and this country safe again.

In fact, this is the entire reason we have a federal government - to protect American citizens and our homeland.

Unfortunately, over recent years, our armed forces have been depleted and currently sit at the lowest levels of troops since World War II. Pilots are not able to get their necessary flight hours logged, and recent reports show that Marine and Air Force pilots have had to go to military museums to find parts to fix their planes because the funding and resources simply have not been available. This is unacceptable - especially when we live in an increasingly dangerous world.

Thankfully, the NDAA is crucial to ensure the United States military has the necessary tools and resources at their disposal. The NDAA will fill those gaps in military readiness so our troops are able to safely and efficiently execute their missions. And this bill will give our service men and women a pay raise that they so greatly deserve.

Lastly, I am proud to have had an amendment - the Atomic Veterans Service Medal Act - added to the NDAA with unanimous support. This provision will allow the individuals who participated in nuclear testing between 1945 and 1962 to finally receive the recognition that is long overdue.

Since taking office, I have been dedicated to ensuring the safety of this nation for you and your family, and with passage of the NDAA, we are one step closer to doing that.

Paul Patterson appointed Tenth Judicial District Administrator

Paul Patterson has been appointed to serve as the new District Administrator of Minnesota's Tenth Judicial District. The appointment, which was approved by the Minnesota Judicial Council, is effective July 10.

As District Administrator, Patterson will oversee the administrative affairs of the Tenth Judicial District, including management and processing of all court records and files, district budgeting and accounting, human resources, and maintenance of the District's computer network. The Tenth Judicial District is comprised of the district courts in Anoka, Chisago, Isanti, Kanabec, Pine, Sherburne, Washington, and Wright counties.

Patterson has worked in the Superior Court of California - Alameda County since 2013 as a Court Support Director and spent over three years in the United States District Court for the Middle District of Florida (M.D.Fla) as a Division Manager. Prior to that, he worked for Protection One, an alarm monitoring corporation, since 2000; first as the Director of Customer Operations, then as a Senior Director of Business Solutions and Senior Director of Operations. He has also earned a Master of Business Administration (MBA).

Patterson will replace Michael Moriarity, who is retiring as Tenth Judicial District Administrator after more than 30 years of service in Minnesota's court system. Moriarity was appointed District Administrator in December 2004, after spending 20 years in various positions with the Second Judicial District (Ramsey County) and the Minnesota Supreme Court. Moriarity is a licensed attorney and a graduate of the William Mitchell College of Law and St. John's University.

During his career with the Minnesota Judicial Branch, Moriarity served on numerous county, district, and state committees, including as a member of the state Judicial Council. His leadership played a significant role in the creation of the award-winning Minnesota Court Payment Center, the nationally-recognized Conservator Account Auditing Program, and the expansion of self-help legal services in Minnesota. Moriarity was frequently called upon to train court staff and managers, and was recognized by the Minnesota Association of Court Managers (MACM) as the Coach/Mentor of the Year in 2009. In 2013, Moriarity also received the MACM Lifetime Achievement award.

In 2016, more than 130,000 cases were filed in Tenth Judicial District courts, the third-highest number of filings among the state's 10 judicial districts. Forty-five judges serve the district.
